

JESSICA RUMBAUGH WINS BIG AT CHAMPIONSHIP SHOW

National Ranch and Stock Horse Alliance, Guthrie, Oklahoma – Jessica Rumbaugh of El Campo, Texas, captured two major titles in the equestrian world at the inaugural National Ranch and Stock Horse Alliance (NRSHA) National Championship Show held in conjunction with the Zoetis AQHA Versatility Ranch Horse (VRH) World Championship Show at the Lazy E in Guthrie, Oklahoma.

Riding her horse Boonfull Of Caesar, she won the AQHA Limited Amateur VRH World Championship as well as the NRSHA Limited Amateur National Championship. The red roan gelding was bred by the Laura and Shawn Stern of Columbia City, Indiana.

During the week-long competition, Jessica was named VRH champion and NRSHA national champion in Limited Amateur ranch riding. She also was reserve champion in ranch reining and ranch cutting. Nearly 725 entries competed in ranch trail, ranch reining, ranch riding, ranch cutting, ranch boxing and ranch cow work at the event.

The newly formed National Ranch and Stock Horse Alliance is comprised of six ranch/stock horse associations – East Coast Stock Horse Association, National Versatility Ranch Horse Association, Oklahoma Stock Horse Association, Stock Horse of Texas, Western States Versatility Ranch Horse Association and the American Quarter Horse Association.

NRSHA classes were held concurrently with the Zoetis AQHA Versatility Ranch Horse World Championship Show classes. More information about NRSHA can be found at www.ranchhorse.net.

Photo credit: The American Quarter Horse Journal